Organist/Accompanist

Long Memorial United Methodist Church, a vibrant historic congregation on Main Street in the historic and thriving small town of Roxboro, North Carolina, is seeking a gifted musician to creatively accompany congregational singing with various sounds and styles on the piano and organ, accompany special choral and solo music, and perform selections during worship under the direction of the Director of Music. The Organist/Accompanist will play for two services each Sunday morning and will support the Director of Music on Wednesday nights during choir practice. Applicants should be familiar with and adept at performing classical and modern sacred music.

Working hours vary but include regular evening and Sunday hours. We estimate this part-time position will average 15-20 hours per week, depending on experience and proficiency. This average includes all research, planning, and practice time. This time commitment generally increases seasonally, with peak periods around Lent/Easter and Advent/Christmas.

The church maintains an Allen Renaissance organ in the sanctuary featuring three manuals with pull stops (for Choir, General, Swell, and Pedal), a radiated pedalboard (including toe pistons), and couplers with many presets. We also maintain a Modest Allen organ in the chapel, and several pianos and electric keyboards throughout the campus.

We look forward to talking with you about this opportunity!
